Editor's Column

Mrs. Florence Sharon Brown left Rome last week, where she has been living for more than a year. She will return to Carmel, but not before a longish delay in Allendale, New Jersey, with Mrs. Robert Warren, until January 1. In her note asking that her Pine Cone be held, she sends a clipping from the Rome Daily American about San Franciscan, and Carmel familiar, Benny Bufano, who has been astonishing the Romans no less than he does his countrymen. The November 6 issue of the R.D.A. calls him, "A little man with big ideas" adding that he carries them out. "He's just finished work of a type of art that's never been done before." That's our Benny!

The never-done-before art appears to be "mosaics in the round. The detail is in the mosaic but instead of being set in a wall in the traditional way, these mosaics are done in simplified almost column like forms, which are also the forms of the figures. Two of them are statues of St. Joseph and the Virgin Mary." And of course, they are ten feet high.

Benny is sending them to San Francisco's Church of St. Francis, where his 20-foot tall, about 22-ton black granite statue of St. Francis is already ensconced. "And Father Alvin Wagner, pastor of the church, is in for a surprise, because he's expecting traditional type statuary," says the Rome Daily American.

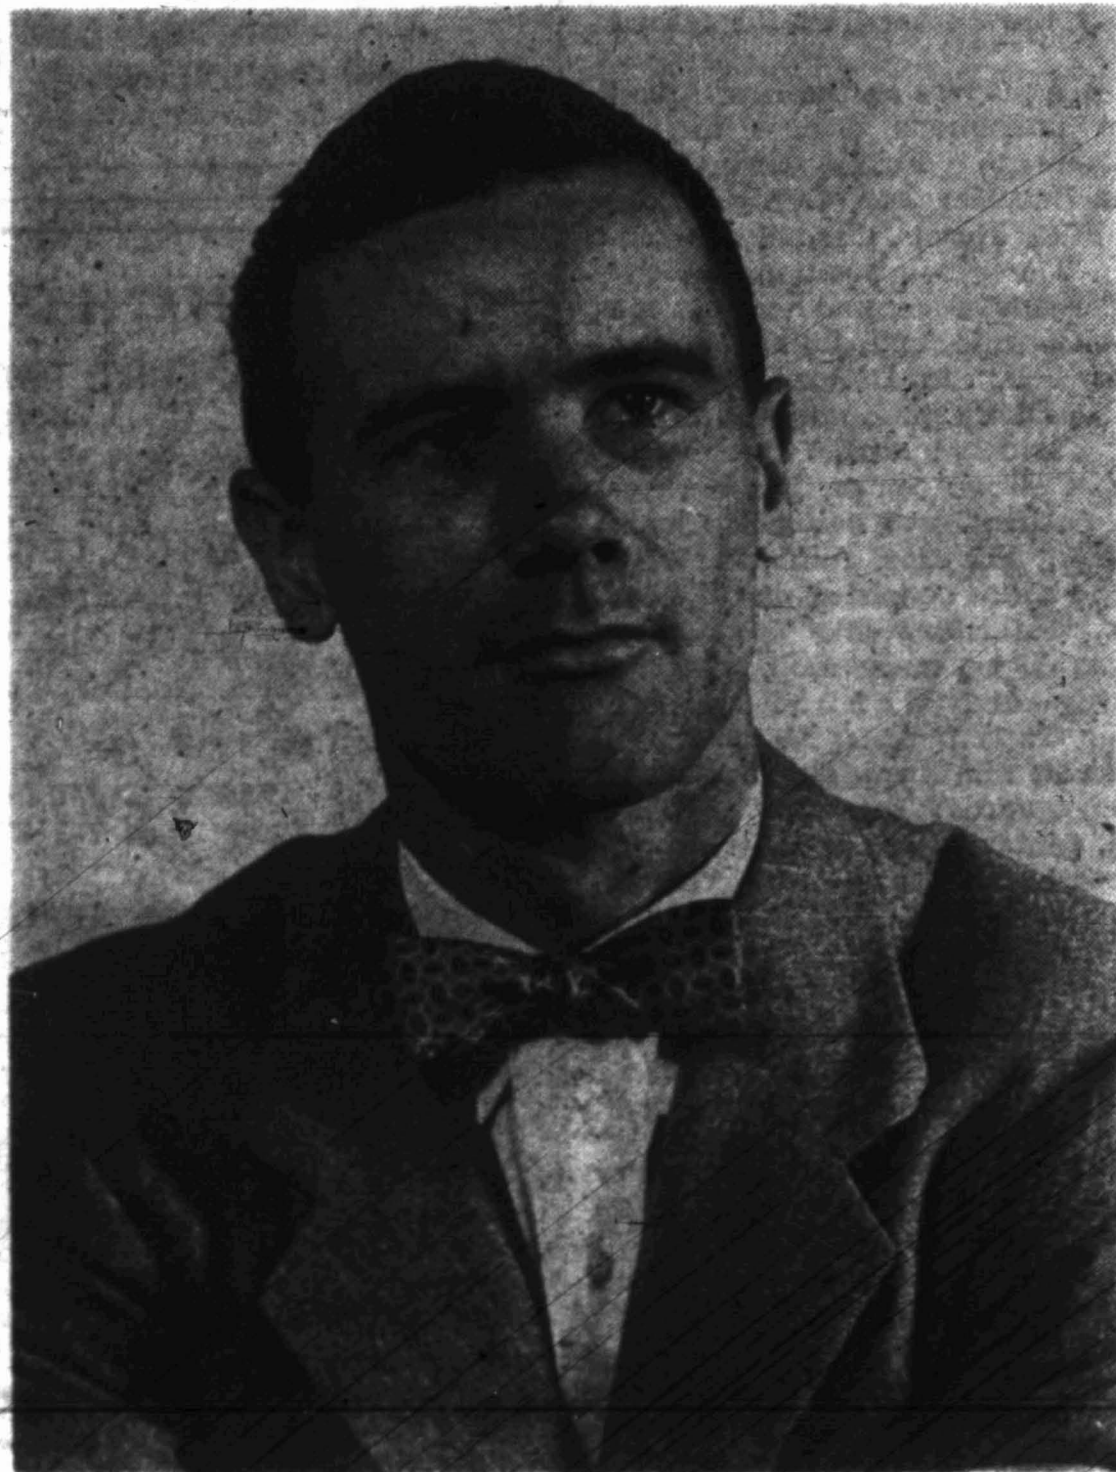

The statues were to be shipped the following week and will no doubt arrive in San Francisco some months from now, but we don't feel uneasy about spoiling Benny's "surprise." The Rome Daily American is a long way from San Francisco and can be excused for believing that Father Alvin Wagner would expect Benny to present him with "traditional type statuary," especially since they probably heard it from Benny's own mouth. I can see how his brown eyes snapped in his impish face when he told them, like they snapped when he and his play-fellow John Cunningham announced solemnly to me that the head of the Bach statue Benny had set up in Devendorf Plaza had been stolen "by a person or persons unknown."

Nobody in San Francisco or Carmel or any other informed corner of California would expect a conventional piece of statuary from Benny, nor would they be surprised at anything he might do, unless it would be to produce a conventional piece of statuary.

Mrs. Brown adds that she had been passing her Pine Cone to Mr. Bufano when she finished with it. Now she is leaving. No more Pine Cones. Poor Benny!

With Mrs. Brown's departure, Patricia Cunningham is in sole charge of representing Carmel among the Romans, for Dr. Remsen Bird and Mrs. Bird left last week and should be somewhere on the Atlantic ocean at the moment. The Pine Cone told you in November 3 issue of the honors bestowed on Dr. Bird because of his translations of the Federalist Papers for a new library at the University

Lone Biologist Holds His Own Among Physicists, Is PTA Pres. On The Side

BY NANCY LOFTON

Lone biologist among a faculty of physicists, chemists and engineers at the Naval Post Graduate School in Monterey, Roderick Clayton of Carmel happily combines his two careers of teaching and research. While working as an undergraduate in the physics department of the California Institute of Technology Dr. Clayton discovered that his great interest was in the field of biology and as a result he is teaching both physics and biology at the Post Graduate School, while continuing his research on rhodospirillum rubrum, light sensitive red bacteria.

Born in Hinsdale, Illinois, to a foreign correspondent father and an Estonian mother, Rod Clayton as a child of ten found his refuge in the basement with a chemistry set. His other interest at that time was butterflies. The butterflies were in the garden and he began to collect them. Comstock's butterfly book was his first purchase with his first earned money and his yearning over the plates of the strange and wonderful insects to be found in Ceylon, Batavia and South America finally produced a collection of 3000 specimens, including 400 varieties, to which he is still adding specimens. He told me a new species of butterfly had recently been discovered in Partington Canyon, down the coast. Dr. Mike Doudoroff, a bio-chemist at Berkeley, discovered the creature a few years ago and around one hundred specimens have been caught and placed in half a dozen collections throughout the country. The new butterfly, Incisalia doudoroffi, is a little drab brown insect with a wing spread of about an inch. It lives on or about the poison oak and the interesting thing about it is that it is very similar to a much more

Greenan's Musical To Open Nov. 25 At Wash-Rack Theatre

The Wash-Rack Theatre in Monterey will be launched with Pine No More, an original musical play by Carmel-bred, Owen Greenan, Friday evening, November 25 at 8:30 o'clock.

Pine No More is a satirical tale of a Carmel-like community and what can happen when tourist "attractions" smother the community with gew-gaws.

Greenan is also the play director, and the cast is composed of Kathi Lewis, Mike Monahan, Jack Morris, Dick Gargiulo, Ric Masten and Narita Monhollon in the principal roles with an additional 13 in chorus and minor roles.

The show will run for twelve performances, on weekends with extra performances on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, 12, 13 and 14.

The Wash-Rack Theatre will seat 135. The building is located on Fremont Street in Monterey next to the Kwik-Way Car Wash and across the street from Marsh's Oriental Shop.

Greenan has consistently worked on this production for two years since he returned to Carmel from the east.

Board Considers Bond Issue, Land Purchase Tonight

A proposed bond issue to finance necessary expansion in the Carmel School District will be again considered informally by members of the Carmel Unified School District Board of Trustees at their meeting tonight at the Carmel High School.

The agenda, in this expansion category, call for consideration of proposed sites for a new school at the entrance to the Valley

Carmel Boy At Home Among Big Brains At Solar Conference

Fourteen-year-old Herbert Miller, a freshman at Carmel High School, attended the Conference on Solar Energy in Tucson, Arizona, two weeks ago, the only boy among hundreds of physicists, astronomers, engineers and inventors, and one of two boys to be present at the World Symposium of World Solar Energy held immediately afterward in Phoenix. He was accompanied on the trip by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bell, and his 12-year-old sister, Courtney, a Sunset School student.

Deeply interested in solar energy, Herbert is at present constructing a solar reflector box at Carmel High School with the help of Miss Enid Larson, science teacher, and Ian Belangee, shop and electronics instructor. Herbert attended the Arizona meetings to gather material on solar energy research to help him in his own project. Not so his sister, Courtney, who, after and an extension of River School property. Harvey Ferris has given informal approval to the five acre River site extension and to the 10 acre Valley site, if it is used for an elementary school only. If the site is to be used for a high school an additional 45 acres would have to be added to make a total of 55 acres. The 10 acre valley site may be purchased at $2,500 an acre from the Hatton family but no decision by them has been given as to the possible price of a 55 acre site.

In addition to the new school, and the land acquisition for River it is now found necessary to have an extra room at Woods School to house the fourth grade next year and this need will be presented to the board tonight.

Consideration of the thirteen persons interviewed to date to fill the principalship of Woods and River School, vacated by the death of Mrs. Marjorie McCausland, will also come up at the board meeting this evening.

Jack and Bonnie Giles, directors of the Carmel Youth Center, will present a report requested by the trustees in respect to the petition of the Center for $600 in funds from the school district.

F. Workman Answers Mrs. Howden's "Why Not Put A Sales Tax On Motels To Finance A Community Auditorium?"

The Editor

Pacific Grove, California
November 15, 1955

I want to reply to the very unsound and unjust proposition made in a letter to The Pine Cone by Grace C. Howden in regard to a sales tax on room rentals in hotels and motels. This tax to build an auditorium.

I suppose Mrs. Howden assumes that most of the money spent by visitors goes to the hotels and motels for lodging. This is not so. Surveys show that only about 25% of the visitor's dollars goes for lodging. The other 75% goes to business in general. Accordingly all real estate values and labor benefit from the dollar spent by tourists. Why single out this one industry to bear brunt of needed improvements. It's not logical or just. Considering everything, there is no business that is taxed more than the hotel and motel industry, especially in this seasonal resort area.

Art Patrons Buy Lofton's Oil For S.F. Museum Of Art

One of the pictures in Richard Lofton's one man show at the Carmel Art Gallery, which ended on Monday, will have its permanent home at the San Francisco Museum of Art. It is a whale skeleton study, the large rib bones framing a view of Whaler's Cove at Point Lobos.

The painting was purchased, subject to acceptance by the museum, by Mr. and Mrs. Ansley K. Salz, San Francisco art patrons and summer residents of Carmel.

This is the second of Lofton's pictures to join the permanent collection of the San Francisco Museum. Five years ago it acquired Three Washerwomen, a large oil, from the period when Lofton was painting negro subjects from his home environment, South Carolina.

Many people have been attracted to the motel business in this area because it is such a desirable place to live. They have contracted large debts and have done an astounding job in preparing attractive lodging for our visitors. They are prepared to earn less on their investment here than they might be able to earn elsewhere. Any additional penalty on this business is out of order.

CARMEL HIGH BEATS PACIFIC GROVE, 14-7

Three big items were wrapped up in Carmel High's 14-7 grid victory over Pacific Grove last Friday afternoon on the windswept Breaker turf. Not only did the Padres whip their natural rivals for the first time in four years, they also regained the coveted Shoe and garnered a share of the CCAL B division football title.

Carmel wasted no time in posting their first score against the fighting Breakers who put up stubborn resistance all the way. The Padres kicked to Pacific Grove and the rock-ribbed Carmel line threw the Breaker backs for a loss of 12 yards in three tries and Pacific Grove was forced to punt. Mike Mosolf, Carmel safety, returned the kick 30 yards and just missed going for six when he put a cleat on the out of bounds line at the Pacific Grove 40-yard line. With Mosolf and Bill McCormack alternating carries, the Padres moved the 40 yards in 8 plays and Mosolf sneaked over for the score. Kyrk Reid, Carmel's automatic placement kicker, was right on the mark and the red and gray squad was in front, 7 to 0.

Pacific Grove outplayed the Padres during the second quarter and actually had the Carmel lads hanging on when the gun ended the first half. The fine passing and running of quarterback Eddie Estaban proved a stubborn package for the Padres to handle as he rambled for long gains and threaded the needle on the quick passes over the middle.

The Padres got touchdown number two late in the third period as Mosolf and McCormack again caught fire and powered for the clincher. Starting on their own 40, Carmel moved 60 yards in 7 plays with Mosolf diving the last yard for the tally. Golden Toe Reid again kicked the conversion to give Carmel a 14-0 edge going into the final period. But the Breakers weren't through yet. Estaban intercepted a Mosolf pass to put the Breakers in business on the Carmel 45-yard line and PG moved for a touchdown on the strength of 4 completed passes and a 5-yard plunge by Cardoza. Breaker fullback. Estaban's pass to Bates was successful for the conversion and with 5 minutes left the Padres were in front, 14 to 7. Late in the period the Breakers started to move through the air when West Whittaker, an alert back for the entire game, intercepted and returned to the Grove 20-yard line. Carmel picked up nine yards on the first play and the gun sounded to end a very fine football game.

To single out a star player in this game would be impossible as the coveted victory was gained by outstanding team play on both offense and defense. Led by co-captain Bob Michela, the defensive unit was superb in controlling the Breaker running game and choked off several threatening PG scores. With Michela, Sid Trevvett, Pat Erwin, Kyrk Reid, Dick Jennings, and Bob Wise up front and Dick Ogden and Charley Dawson backing up, the Carmel forwards forced the Breakers into the air for most of their gains. Fine halfback play by West Whittaker and Clyde Klaumann cut off any running attempts which cleared the line-backers. Carmel's offensive gang was led by their All-CCAL quarterback, Mike Mosolf, who provided the running behind the excellent blocking of Bill McCormack, Clyde Klaumann, West Whittaker, Dick Ogden, and captain Michela.

The following seniors played their last game of football for Carmel High and will have pleasant memories to hang on to: Co-captains Bob Michela and Mike Mosolf, Pat Erwin, Kyrk Reid, Dick Ogden, Sid Trevvett, John Thompson, George Wightman, Bob Wise, Mervin Sutton, Dick Jennings, West Whittaker, Dick Holt, Harry Baxter, Bill McCormack, Ron Huffman, and Bob Frizzell. Returning for action next year will be Charley Dawson, Clyde Klaumann, Mike Meheen, Joe Mason, and Brian Leidig.

CARMEL JUNIOR VARSITY UPSET, 13-8

After 10 consecutive victories, bitter defeat finally caught up with the Carmel High junior-varsity football team last Friday afternoon when the fired-up Pacific Grove reserves clipped the Little Padres, 13 to 8. A bit overconfident because of their superior record as compared to Pacific Grove's, the Carmel lads had a perceptible letdown after getting an easy score in the first period and it was PG's game from that point on. Jim Konrad, Padrecito quarterback, picked up six points on a keeper play early in the first quarter for Carmel's only touchdown. Bob Leidig's sharp tackle of a PG runner in the end zone provided the other two points for Carmel.

Pacific Grove got on the board by a scoring pass from their ace quarterback, Bob Coble, to right end Pat Reilley. The conversion was unsuccessful and Carmel had an 8-6 bulge at halftime. A gift pass handed to tackle Jim McIntire provided the winning touchdown as the grateful McIntire rambled into the Carmel end zone for the go-ahead score. The conversion was good and Operation Upset was ended.

PADRES PLACE THREE ON ALL-CCAL SQUAD

Coast Counties Athletic League coaches and sportswriters banded together Monday night to pick an All-CCAL football team and came up with a pair of clubs which would do all right in high school competition. Carmel, co-champions of the B division, placed three players on the first team and one on the second eleven. Bob Michela and Dick Ogden, guards, and Mike Mosolf, quarterback, were selected for the first squad and Sid Trevvett, defensive guard and offensive center, drew a berth on the second unit.

Three players on the first squad were unanimous choices of the selectors: Jim Fahey, Gilroy halfback, Bob Harrison, Gilroy tackle, and Mike Mosolf, Carmel quarterback. The other positions on the first team were manned by Joe Bass, Gonzales end, Julian Aguilar, Gilroy end, Tom DeRoza, Hollister tackle, Dick Ogden and Bob Michela, Carmel guards, Jim Yuma Pacific Grove center, Eddie Estaban, Pacific Grove, halfback, Chuck Zanella, Hollister fullback. The second team consisted of Gil Sanchez (Hollister) and Joe Cozby (King City), ends; Bob Mazzuca (Gilroy) and Manuel Miranda (King City) tackles; Sid Trevvett (Carmel) and Roger Sanchez (Hollister) guards; Tom Chavez (Gilroy), center; Ron Leonti (Gilroy), quarterback; Tony Calub (Gonzales) and Earl Bramhall (King City), halfbacks; and Dennis Conray (Live Oak), fullback.

numerous species which lives all about it and yet it has resisted interbreeding and assimilation and has preserved its species identity.

Teaching physics and biology, observing the behavior of red bacteria, classifying butterflies are not enough to exhaust Dr. Clayton's attention. The study of the piano, of religion and history, the raising of two children, Ricky and Ann, leave some time unaccounted for and to take up the slack he and his wife Betty Jean serve as joint presidents of the Carmel Parent Teachers Association. An interest in education has been one of the moving forces in the life of these two people who have given unsparingly of their time to it. In the winter of 1952 and 53 he held a Saturday morning science class for some 20 boys, giving them demonstrations and lectures in general science which awakened considerable interest among those fortunate enough to attend.

Dr. Clayton believes profoundly in the necessity for good teaching which begins at an early age to stimulate curiosity and train the powers of observation. A wide-eyed wonder at the miracles of the physical world is not enough. It must be coupled with training and discipline. He owes much himself to his teachers. First among them he ranks Dr. C. S. van Niel, of the Hopkins Marine Station, an inspiring teacher with a remarkable ability to relate grammar to logic, who gave him a sense of the necessity for clear and exact expression. The Pasadena Junior College, which he attended for part of his undergraduate study, he considers gave him magnificent preparation for a career in science. The teachers were good and the curriculum was strong. There was excellent teaching in mathematics. The men who taught mathematics were mathematicians themselves and gave him a solid introduction to mathematical discipline, particularly through geometry.

Receiving a scholarship to the California Institute of Technology Dr. Clayton began with the study of chemistry. Leaving school in 1942 he entered the army. Upon his return to school in 1946 he changed his major to physics, only to discover shortly that biology was his field. He continued with physics, however, receiving his degree in that subject while continuing his biological studies more or less on the side. A grant from the Atomic Energy Commission for further research came to him and for three years he worked at The California Institute of Technology as a graduate assistant. Having earned his doctorate in biology in 1951, he received the Merck post-doctoral fellowship for study at the Hopkins Marine Station. Last summer he was given a grant from the Lalor Foundation for a summer of work on nerve physiology at Woods Hole, Massachusetts.

His publications include six papers published in the Archiv für Mikrobiologie, an article in the Scientific American for November, 1951 on red bacteria, written in collaboration with Dr. Max Delbruck and an article on Fun With Light in the March, 1955, issue of Jack and Jill Magazine.

When the Naval Postgraduate School needed a man to teach both biology and physics, and capable of discussing the radiation effects of atomic explosions, Dr. Clayton was asked to join the staff and promised time and equipment to continue his research on red bacteria.

Since 1948 Dr. Clayton has been working with a culture of red bacteria which he has maintained by successive replantings from the original stock he obtained from Dr. van Niel. The red bacteria is interesting in that it is sensitive to light. It has a mode of life like that of green plants, living by photosynthesis, but it also can respire like higher forms of life. In the presence of light and air it can carry on both the processes of photosynthesis and respiration. It contains a pale green pigment, a variant of chlorophyll, which is masked by a red pigment similar to the carotene which gives tomatoes and red leaves their color.

Last summer in Woods Hole he was happy to find acres of marshland colored red by the presence of these bacteria and marked by a strong odor of hydrogen sulfide. There are bacteria in sea water which convert the sulfates in the sea to hydrogen sulfide which is poisonous to almost everything but the red bacteria, who thrive in its presence.

Dr. Clayton has found that the red bacteria make a response to light strikingly analogous to the visual processes in animals. There is between the two forms of life, animal and bacterial, a strong similarity in composition of light receiving pigments and in the processes which follow the initial stimulus of light, leading to nerve impulses or their equivalent. No one has yet seen a system of nerves in a bacteria, but it is assumed that either a system of nerves or its equivalent exists.

He has studied extensively the effect of ultra-violet radiation on red bacteria, not so much to investigate the effects of radiation as to learn the mechanism by which metabolism is carried on in the bacteria. Altering the metabolic sequence by ultra-violet radiation he produces a selective de-

Colonel Louis F. Saylor, Army Medical Corps, son of Mrs. Mabel Saylor of Carmel was awarded the Founder's Medal of the Association of Military Surgeons at its 62nd annual meeting November 9 in Washington, D.C.

The award is for "outstanding contribution to military medicine and conspicuous service to the Association of Military Surgeons" during 1955. For the past year Colonel Saylor has served as chairman of the association's arrangements committee, which planned and organized the annual meeting just concluded.

Colonel Saylor, who is assistant chief of the Education and Training Division in the Office of the Surgeon General in Washington, received his bachelor of science and doctor of medicine degrees from the University of Nebraska. He entered the Army in 1937 and during World War II served in the European Theater of Operations as division surgeon of the 8th Armored Division and later as corps surgeon of the XV Corps. For that service, he was awarded the Bronze Star Medal and the Commendation Ribbon with Bronze Star.

Guess Where You'll Buy Your Xmas Tree

Walt Pilot, who is giving Augie Nieto serious competition for the title of No. 1 Idea Man, is at the moment a lap or two ahead, because of his Christmas Tree For The Ball Park project. Walt spent a busy beginning of the week getting promises from all the grocers who sold Christmas trees here last year that they'd refrain from Christmas sales this year and turn the business over to him in trust of course.

Pilot offered his Christmas Tree monopoly to the Lions to swell the profits they hope to make on their parking lot in and around the Carmel Theater, for the benefit of the high school ball field. They snapped it up. So plan to buy your Christmas tree at the Lions Parking Lot. The banks have already promised to buy their two-story ones there (for about $50 a piece).

MORSE SHOW AT PEBBLE BEACH

S. F. B. Morse will have a exhibition of his paintings from November 18 through December 4 at the Pebble Beach Gallery at Del Monte Lodge. The gallery is open daily from 10:00 until 5:00, and Sunday 11:00 until 5:00.

Morse is past president of the Carmel Art Association and his work has been exhibited at the Carmel gallery.

Mrs. Whitthorne

Mrs. Minnie L. Whitthorne, widow of William R. Whitthorne, died last night in the Ave Maria nursing home where she had been living for the past 11 months. Previous to moving to the home, Mrs. Whitthorne had lived in Carmel for five years.

Born in Monterey County, at Blanco, in 1873, Mrs. Whitthorne was the daughter of the late Charles Louis, a native of France and his wife, the former Louisa Weitz, from Germany. Skylark Is Outstanding For Technical Excellence

BY MAX TADLOCK

There is only one really upsetting note for the confirmed playgoer in the Golden Bough Players Circle production currently showing at the Theatre-in-the-Round. They may have reached a standard of technical excellence that they will be unable to maintain in future shows.

In short, if you haven't seen Skylark, do. It is the smoothest production seen by this reviewer on the peninsula.

This comedy concerns the young advertising executive who finds that on the eve of his tenth wedding anniversary he is likely to be sued for divorce with his business being named as the correspondent. Terry Eby as Tony Kenyon and Gertrude Chappell as Lydia Kenyon, his wife, are the bright stars in the main roles. But what might be said of them might be said of most of the players—they are so right that they seem almost type-caste.

Anne Fry as the ex-chorus girl now married to and controlling the Valentine millions is at once beautiful and coarse. And the portrayal of her husband by Edgar Bryant is another of his excellent characterizations.

Both Bud Rose and Stephen Pack give excellent performances as other lost souls in the advertising game, although Mr. Pack occasionally has a bit of difficulty with lines. Bee Mouser as another wife caught in the swirl and Douglas Macfarlane as the Kenyon's butler, I marked on my program as old pros. When they came on stage, the whole scene was always injected with new life.

What is possibly the most difficult part of all was well handled by Walter Williams. As Bill Blake, he plays the bachelor lawyer who woos Myrtle Valentine because of her husband's importance to his firm and who also woos Lydia Kenyon because he sees in her all the life that is passing him by. Brilliant cynic, alcoholic weakling. Mr. Williams was both, but his supposed reputation as a jury-swaying lawyer was always in doubt because his diction left the most to be desired of all those on stage. It was more a minor annoyance than a serious defect, however.

If an outstanding job had been done by the cast only, this might be marked down as another well-done amateur theatrical. But Charles Thomas has both directed and staged with consummate skill. And he has received assistance in the properties department that few professional shows can equal. The women are beautifully gowned and coiffed, the Kenyon's home is furnished in perfect young executive level taste, and there are no wrong notes struck in the staging.

But you've got to like theatre-in-the-round to enjoy this production of Samson Raphaelson's drawing room comedy. You've got to be able to sit in the middle of a family brawl and not feel uncomfortable. And for this reviewer, that's difficult. My impression was that occasionally others in the audience were also slightly embarrassed to witness anything so intimate. But perhaps there could be no better tribute to the cast.

Performance is scheduled each weekend, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday through December 4. And I wouldn't wait until the last minute for tickets. This house will be packed.

ORGAN GROUP MEETS

Over fifty members and guests of the Hammond Organ Society met Sunday afternoon for a program at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Graham in Carmel Woods.

Guest artist was 13-year-old Tommy Hazelton of Pacific Grove, a pupil of Robert Forbes. He presented seven numbers in the first part of the program. The second part of the entertainment was shared by 10-year-old Sue McCrae of Santa Cruz, and by members in a jam session.

At a business meeting presided over by Dr. B. J. Balcar plans were made to hold a Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Skowran of Carmel Highlands on December 11.

DECK'S HOBBY

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Deck, who came to Carmel, from Los Angeles, a year ago, have developed the hobby of projecting movies to interested groups. Week before last they were in Coalinga where they were featured at Masonic Family night and showed Highway to Hawaii, a film lent to them by United Airlines, and Trail of the Midnight Sun, which they obtained from the Canadian National Railways. The Decks are always ready, free of charge, to provide entertainment for an organization or group, and have available to them travelogues and other films.

While Mr. and Mrs. Deck were in Coalinga they not only showed their films but also had a first showing of their newest grandchild, the six-weeks old daughter and fourth child of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Hunter.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

What purposeful living and intelligent consecration to God can mean for mankind will be explained at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon "Soul and Body" will include the following from I Peter (1:22, 23): "Seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently: Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the following passage will be among those read (428:15-19): "We should consecrate existence, not to the unknown God whom we ignorantly worship, but to the eternal builder, the everlasting Father, to the Life which mortal sense cannot impair nor mortal belief destroy."

REVIEWING "SEEING AMERICA'S WILDLIFE"

BY DEVEREAUX BUTCHER

The conservation of wildlife has always had a more dramatic appeal to the public than any of its other aspects. The successful effort to save the American bison from extermination and the unsuccessful efforts to save a few of the Carolina parakeets and the passenger pigeons have both been highly publicized and never fail to excite great interest on the part of readers young or old, when properly presented. Perhaps a sense of kinship with living creatures stirs a spark that sometimes fails to come to life when the issue is the use of land.

Devereaux Butcher has sensed this appeal and has given us a book, the first of its kind, describing the important part that our comparatively new system of wildlife refuges is playing in the protection and appreciation of our native animals and birds. Mr. Butcher is editor of National Parks Magazine and is well known for his book, "Exploring Our National Parks and Monuments". The present book, which has the full title, "Seeing America's Wildlife in Our National Refuges", is published by the Devin-Adair Company in New York and sells for $5. It was prepared under the auspices of the Defenders of Furbearers, "an independent, educational, non-profit organization to reduce the widespread but generally unrealized suffering of furbearing animals through use of the steel trap".

The book begins with 24 pages of text, "rolling back the pages of the past" and describing with sympathetic imagination what "the primitive land" of North America must have looked like. Then we have briefly the history of wildlife protection leading to the establishment of the present system of refuges. Following that are several pages of expression of sincere convictions on the part of the author about "killing for fun" and about the cruelties of taking furbearing animals in steel traps.

An incident that happened three years ago when Mr. Butcher and his wife were visiting in Carmel will illustrate the affinity that wild animals have for him. After an evening at the home of this reviewer, as they were leaving the front door two coons appeared in the yard and without fear advanced toward Mr. Butcher. One of them even accepted food from his hand. This was the first and only time that these animals have ever shown themselves in our yard, though we have evidence of their frequent nocturnal visits. Perhaps they instinctively felt the sympathy for their kind that flows from Mr. Butcher's personality.

The rest of the 338 pages of the book consists of factual descriptions, mingled with many of the author's personal experiences, of the various wildlife refuges of the country, arranged alphabetically for convenience. Scattered throughout the book are 350 superb half-tones of birds and animals found in the refuges, and of the scenery of the refuges themselves. Many of these are the author's own photographs, made on extended trips through the country two or three years ago to gather information on the wildlife refuges and the various national parks and monuments.

Altogether this is a handsome book and a tribute to the remarkable industry of the author in collecting this valuable information. I commend it as a unique and worthwhile Christmas gift.

On Monday report cards for the first quarter of school were issued and with them came vows to do better next time. The honor role for the first quarter will be published shortly.

Another topic of conversation, especially for Junior and Senior students, is the American Field Service Summer Program. Under this program two Carmel High School junior or senior students are eligible to live with European families for six to seven weeks during July and August of 1956.

The cost of the program is $435. This includes the cost of round trip ocean transportation, round trip travel on the continent between port and final destination. There are other expenses in addition to this sum, such as: personal spending money during the summer (between $75 and $100), cost of official documents ($10 to $15), personal and baggage insurance ($25), and travel between the U. S. port and home.

In order to qualify a student must have the following requirements: (1) Must be at least 16 years of age by June of the year he applies, (2) Must be a member in good standing of the student body of a school which is participating in the AFS program during the last two academic years. (3) Must be in the Junior or Senior class, (4) Must be in good health, (5) A candidate should have personal qualifications such as outgoingness, the ability to get along easily with people, both young and old, the ability to adapt quickly to different situations, maturity, stability, and a sense of responsibility for the purpose of the Summer Program. A candidate must have studied a foreign language for at least two years. A candidate must have a strong academic record.

The host families are all carefully screened and all offer their hospitality through their belief in the purposes of the program. Families do not receive any financial assistance.

Selection of the students will be made by a student committee, faculty committee, and previous summer program students.

This is truly a "chance of a lifetime."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Seen Monk's "Better Half"?

Monk McCarthy's latest creation has the town talking again. You can see it parked in front of Monk's auto repair shop on Maple.

Remember last year Monk cut two cars in half, and put their front ends together? You couldn't tell if the thing was coming or going. Sure attracted attention.

Now Monk's taken Tog Morgan's old sedan and completely restored one half of it. One side is as good as new, the other looks like—well, Tog's old car. "Sort of a before-and-after demonstration," Monk told me, "shows folks the kind of work I do."

From where I sit, some of Monk's ideas may look a little wild sometimes... but I wouldn't want to tell him how to run his business any more than I'd like him to tell me what beverage to enjoy. He always keeps a hot pot of tea in his garage—I'd rather have a cold glass of beer—but respect for each other's opinion is "auto"-matic with us both.

Joe Marsh

"I was always washed out on washdays..."

and then I got an automatic dryer!"

When the wash is out on the line, do you feel like a washout yourself? Who wouldn't, with all that lugging, stooping and pinning. Then, when the clothes finally dry, there's the same routine in reverse. Wouldn't you rather toss the wash into an automatic dryer? At the twist of a dial, the dryer gets them fluffy and sweet... or ready for ironing. With P. G. and E.'s low rates, you can run a dryer for pennies a week. See your appliance dealer today, and get rid of washday's hardest job!

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg
This library will be enjoying beautiful sunsets all next week, meaning that all the new books on exhibition next week are put out by Sunset Magazine. They comprise an unusual collection of materials on many different subjects. Sunset Magazine does a fine job of editing and publishing these practical handbooks on a variety of subjects. Wherever possible, we bought them in regular bindings, but some are published only in stiff paper covers, and in such cases we had to be content with what was available. Because these books are all from the County Library they are for the use of patrons having only a county card as well as those with our city borrowers card. In other words, these books are for everybody, and are well worth while.

There are six cookbooks in the collection, some large and some smaller and more specialized. The Cook Book of Favorite Recipes is a general cookbook with a distinctly western slant. Chefs of the West is a cookbook for men and contains 575 winning recipes. The Sunset Salad Book is just what the name implies, and Cooking With a Foreign Accent is a collection of distinctive recipes from many lands. The Western Sea Food Cook Book contains recipes for cooking western shell fish and also Pacific Ocean fish. The Barbecue Cook Book tells you how to prepare tasty dishes for both indoor and outdoor cookery.

Discovery Trips in California describes many trips to be made to interesting spots in the state, and the Western Campsite Directory gives a complete list of public campsites in the seven western states and Hawaii.

The Patio Book will plan your patio, be it large or small, and Landscaping Your Home will show you just which plants and shrubs will look best in a great variety of locations. How to Build Fences and Gates gives illustrated descriptions of so many different types of fences that the reader is almost astonished, or at least, this reader was almost astonished.

For those with time for hobbies, there are three books which have self-explanatory titles. They are The Ceramic Book, The Leather Craft Book, and the Wood Carving Book. For the person whose hobby is gardening, there are The Pruning Handbook, and The Flower Arrangement Book.

Lastly, there is a group of books for the home planner and builder. One is for specialized building, and is called Ideas for Hillside Homes. A book which contains plans for many interesting houses is called Homes for Western Living. Another specialized one is How to Plan and Build Your Fireplace. Actual building directions and techniques for the do-it-yourself craftsman are included in The Outdoor Building Book.

There are eighteen books and handbooks here. We hope you make good use of them.

Utility Do's And Don'ts "In Case" From Capt. Gleason

Instructions to the public concerning utility services and what to do upon receiving warning of an impending attack have been issued by the California Office of Civil Defense and released to the Pine Cone by Captain H. M. Gleason, head of civil defense in Carmel.

Don't shut off your gas service cock is the first admonition. Heat may be needed during the attack and if service is restored by untrained persons, dangerous accumulations of gas may be released. Secondly, do not shut off electricity. Radio may be the only means of receiving official instructions and lighting necessary in the bomb shelter.

The water supply should not be shut off. Water may be needed to extinguish fires or for sanitary facilities. In this respect it is also advised by civil defense not to draw quantities of water into bath tubs or containers. This reduces pressure in the mains, and is an unnecessary waste. Water heaters have sufficient supplies for emergency drinking and cooking needs.

Do shut off irons, toasters, stoves and other appliances as though you were going out for the day.

Margaret Kerr Married

Margaret Louise Kerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Macmillan Kerr, was married to William McKay Littell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvey J. Littell of Sequoia National Park, on Saturday afternoon in All Saints' Church in a double ring ceremony performed by the Reverend Angus Dun, Jr.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the Lohengrin wedding music and during the ceremony, Robert Forbes played an organ arrangement of the Sequoia Suite, composed by the groom's mother. The Mendelssohn wedding march was used for the recessional.

Margaret chose a wedding gown of sheer white Swiss organdy over taffeta, the skirt sweeping into a long train in back and the deep curved neckline edged with wide Swiss handkerchief embroidery. Her bouquet was an arrangement of phalenopsis and butterfly orchids with stephanotis and a wreath of shattered carnations held her tulle veil in place. The veil, short in front, fell over her face and extended to three-quarter length in back. At the altar the matron of honor turned the veil back from her face for the rest of the ceremony. A handkerchief of rosepoint lace from France was the "something old" which Margaret wore, given her by the groom's mother, and which had formerly belonged to his grandmother.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Edward Eugene Young of Berkeley (Penny Kerr), who wore a red taffeta princess style ballerina length dress, with a band of black velvet in her hair, black velvet pumps and carried a bouquet of white Fuji chrysanthemums. The two other attendants, Mrs. William Ober of Pebble Beach and Mrs. Norman Miller of Tulare were similarly dressed and carried similar bouquets.

Best man was Joel Readio of San Francisco and ushers were Race Kent and Morris Knudsen of Tulare and the groom's brother, Archer Littell of Palo Alto.

The reception for the 200 guests at the wedding was held in the Carmel Woman's Club which was decorated with ferns, ivy and white chrysanthemums. Maidenhair fern and white begonias surrounded the three tier wedding cake, with garlands of the fern and begonias extending out onto the table on which the cake was placed. Friends of the family had assisted in decorating the club for the occasion.

Mrs. Kerr, mother of the bride, received the guests in a ballerina length peau de soie dress worn with navy accessories and long white kid gloves. Her corsage was of phalenopsis orchids. Mrs. Littell, mother of the groom, wore a gown of grey lace with dusty pink hat and gloves.

When Peggy and her husband left for a short honeymoon she donned a suit and beret of McKay clan tartan, which is light blue and green plaid with a black and white cross stripe. Black accessories completed her costume. The groom wore a matching plaid vest, the tartan of his mother's clan, McKay.

Both the bride and groom are teachers at Tulare Union High School, Peggy teaching physical education and her husband doing psychological work for the school system.

New Daughter For The Johnstons

Carole Kilgore Johnston was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on November 7, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Johnston. Her parents spent a good deal of thought in choosing a name for the baby as Mrs. Johnston is French and, both she and her husband, wanted a name that would be pronounced the same in French and English. Carole was the solution to the problem. Kilgore, her second name is an old Scottish family name on her father's side. Carole has an older sister, Marielise, three years old, who on Monday remarked about her week old sister, "She's a good baby, but not as pretty as I am."

Varda On Panel

Jean Varda, who recently had a one man show of his collages and paintings at the Hidden Village Gallery in Monterey, was one of the persons chosen to discuss Art and Your Home at the San Francisco Museum of Art on Monday evening. Varda was the artist of the group which included architects, a fashion designer, a sculptor and a typical San Francisco couple chosen from the audience. He is a former resident of Monterey.

Mawdsleys To Mexico

City Clerk Peter Mawdsley and Mrs. Mawdsley left Friday morning, very early, for a three weeks' vacation which officially began Monday, but Friday was a holiday and the Mawdsleys want to tour Mexico. If a tropical postcard arrives to brighten the eyes of the Pine Cone editor, any information it may carry on the Mawdsleys' progress will be passed on to the Pine Cone readers.

Kurt An Instructor Now

An advancement in rank and rating for Kurt von Meien, and a feather in the cap of Carmel High School Spanish Instructor, Donald Craig, is Kurt's recent assignment as an instructor in the English Language School, at the Recruit Preparatory Training Unit, U.S. Naval Training Center, in San Diego.

Because of his adeptness in conversational Spanish, and his interest in foreign relations, Kurt has been transferred from his post on the U.S.S. Eldorado, to the Training Center, where he will instruct Puerto Rican draftees, none of whom speaks more than rudimentary English. Kurt writes to his mother, Mrs. Julian von Meier, "I am now an English teacher, and our first group of 60 Puerto Ricans arrived yesterday. Our job will be to teach them English in eight weeks before they enter boot camp. It's a full time job as they must be under constant supervision, but it should be interesting as well as challenging. I not only have to polish my Spanish but must learn the Puerto Rican dialects, too!"

Basil In Alpha Omega Alpha

Basil Allaire, son of Mrs. C. W. Allaire, who is in his senior year at St. Louis University Medical School, has been elected to membership in the college's chapter of Alpha Omega Alpha, national honorary medical society. Each year a select number of senior students is approved for candidacy by the officers of the school and elections to the society are made by active members of the chapter. Membership is based on scholarship, character and personality.

Basil graduated from Carmel High School with the class of 1948. He was active in the band and glee club and was an honor student. He received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Santa Clara where he was on the dean's list for outstanding scholarship.

Basil is married to the former Lee McKenney, daughter of Dr. A. Carol McKenney.

Gracecarol Kearney To Wed

A mutual interest in the theater, and particularly the Forest Theater, where Gracecarol Kearney and Ron Bostwick met as members of the board, blossomed into romance and Gracecarol and Ron were married on Saturday afternoon in a quiet ceremony at the Church of the Wayfarer.

After a short trip they will return to Carmel to live. Gracecarol came here to live ten years ago and has divided her time between Carmel and the Big Sur. She is a graduate of the University of California, although her home was in Philadelphia where her family still lives.

Ron, a novelist and playwright, is currently employed in a civilian capacity at the Presidio of Monterey. He is a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve and saw service in both the Korean and World War II. Ron is originally from Olympia, Washington, where his mother, Mrs. Elsie Bostwick still lives. He is a graduate of the University of Washington. Ron's play, High Mesa, was recently performed at the Forest Theater, the first play by a local playwright to be produced in seven years.

Parents To Be Pupils

Tuesday evening the parents of Carmel High school pupils will take their children's places in class for a few hours. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Klaumann, in charge of the high school section of the Carmel Parent-Teacher Association, have arranged a program starting at 6:00 o'clock in the evening when parents may pick up their children's class schedules in the cafeteria, proceed for three sample periods of class work in the rooms in which their children take classes. Then they may return to the cafeteria for dinner (40 cents), and, after the meal, complete the other three periods of the simulated school day. Schooling over there will be a general assembly in the cafeteria with a report from the committee on the separation of the high school group from the present Carmel P.T.A. unit. Refreshments will follow and parents and teachers will then have an opportunity for informal talk. Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Kocher spent last weekend in the Bay region seeing three of the four Kocher daughters. Only one that was missing was Sybil Epling who with her husband, Philip, is living in Chicago. Occasion for the trip was the reception which Mrs. Francis Reis, daughter of Dr. Kocher, gave on Saturday afternoon for her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Furst of Berkeley. The Fursts were married three weeks ago in Los Angeles and on their way north stopped in Carmel to see Dr. and Mrs. Kocher. Mr. Furst is an economic analyst for the Bank of America. Sunday the Kochers spent with their daughter June and her husband Michael Harner, in Berkeley, and with the two Harner children, Terry and Jimmy.

rangement in order to learn more of the normal process. When subjected to radiation insufficient to kill them, the bacteria show evidence of a changed metabolic rate, as certain enzymes, the catalysts which initiate and carry on the process of metabolism, are inactivated. As parts of the metabolic sequence are thus altered significant facts about a process universal to life may be discovered.

This process, in which life consumes food, converting organic compounds into other organic compounds is fairly universal, and it is assumed that what is true of the process in one system may well be true in others. Microbiology in general, and the study of the metabolism of rhodospirillum rubrum in particular, have become not an isolated specific field of study but a fruitful avenue of approach to all phases of biological research. This idea has been gradually developing among microbiologists for the last fifteen years, with a consequent broadening of understanding of the mechanisms involved in vital processes. The increasing use of the electron microscope has brought the science of biology to the molecular level. Insight into many of the mechanisms by which life is carried on has been gained through research into the molecular structure of the tissues involved. It has been discovered that the membranes of certain nerve fibres act in a certain way because of their molecular structure which gives them certain properties. A muscle capable of contraction and relaxation does so because of the unique spiral pattern of its protein molecules.

It is through patient, disciplined research such as Dr. Clayton carries on with his red bacteria that knowledge is increased. As a great deal is learned about forms of life simpler than man it is increasingly apparent that a remarkable complexity exists on the lowest scale, and, further, that what is true of the metabolism of a red bacteria on the shore of Massachusetts might well have relation to and significance for the rest of the living world. The gap between living and non-living matter is not yet bridged. The question of how evolution can possibly have come so far in the short two billion years attributed to the process is at present unanswerable. An understanding of the fundamental concepts peculiar to the living world, as the concepts of mass and energy are peculiar to the inorganic world, is woefully incomplete, but men are at work, attacking their problems sometimes with indirection, but always with discipline and patience. Out of such research come a few possible hypotheses.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

What do you think of when you see a lush ear of corn? Yum . . . Yum? What do you think of when you see a field of stubble with the corn harvested and gone? I guess fall has come. You think that is the end of the thing? America's number one farm crop is now corn that is taking on countless new and mysterious forms totally unrecognizable to those of us who are just "nibblers".

There is corn in the safety glass of your automobile . . . corn in the spectacles you wear; cornstarch in this page you are reading, and in the fabric of your living room upholstery. You are looking at corn in the paint on your walls, and if you happen to be addicted to looking at pretty legs, sure enough, there is corn in "them thar stockings". If you have the time to glance below those lovely legs you'll take a gander at her shoes . . . corn . . . pure corn . . .

The beef steak is the offspring of corn, the castings of your car engine come from corn, the insulation of your refrigerator, and lots and lots of stuff inside are products of "you know what". Let's go into the operating room. Once upon a time talc was used to dust the inside of the surgeon's rubber gloves. Once a glove split and the talc was inorganic and the patient's tissues could not absorb it; I am told that the surgeon had one devil of a time clearing up the resultant adhesions. Now, who do you suppose came to the rescue? Why corn of course. Corn starch can be steam-sterilized without getting sticky, so there you are in the operating room.

Once upon a time a warehouse filled with cornstarch burned to the ground. When the clean-up was attempted, the stuff had become so sticky it was a hopeless mess. Result? Today, burned starch is now turned into dextrin, of which there are myriad varieties; used in binding together prefabricated houses, parts of paper bags and the goo on your envelopes. Dextrin holds the cork of your cigarettes, gives the crisp finish to organdy dresses.

Corn starch mixed with hydrochloric acid makes corn syrup. The dextrose from corn is identical with the sugar in our blood. At this very moment someone's life is being saved by an intravenous injection of dextrose.

And didn't I turn out to be a "corny guy" today!

Polio Vaccination For Carmel Kids On November 28

The polio vaccination program will be resumed for children in the first three grades of the Carmel schools on the Monday after Thanksgiving, November 28. Children, whose parents desire immunization for them, will be inoculated at Woods school in the morning and at River school in the afternoon.

The current polio vaccination program is being carried on under the supervision of the Monterey County Health Department and with the approval and participation of the Monterey County Medical Society, according to a bulletin received this week from Dr. Myron W. Husband, Director of Public Health for the county.

Want To Sing In Opera? Sign Up At M.P.C. On Monday

The Opera Productions Group will meet for registration and the first rehearsal Monday evening, 8:00 o'clock in room M-9 at Monterey Peninsula College.

Dr. Harvey Marshall and Gret Muser will conduct the group in the opera, The Marriage of Figaro. Dr. Marshall is the choral director at MPC and last year directed Così fan tutte.

All interested persons are invited to be present for this first rehearsal.

PLANNING ASSOCIATION

Continuing the series of forums on various phases of planning, the Monterey County Citizen's Planning Association will present Mr. H. G. Stevens of San Francisco in the Community Room of the Monterey Public Library tomorrow evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Mr. Stevens is a harbor development specialist. Since the development of harbor facilities in Monterey Bay would greatly influence the future of this County, the information he has compiled from his recent conferences in Washington, D. C. is of value to the County.

The meeting is open to the public, and everyone who is interested in this aspect of planning is welcome to attend.

Fire Restrictions Ease In Los Padres

The recent storm which left snow and rain over much of Southern California considerably reduced fire danger over most of Los Padres National Forest. Supervisor Roberts E. Jones stated that hazards had decreased sufficiently to allow resumption of public use on National Forest areas which have been closed or restricted to public use since July 1.

Accordingly, he has received approval from the Regional Forester to lift the restricted use order. Camping and smoking regulations on forest lands which have been in effect since June 1, have also been lifted.

However, Mr. Jones pointed out, the strong dry winds which followed the storm within a very short time make the brush inflammable again unless more rains fall soon. He urges forest users to continue their care with the use of fire at all times, and reminds them that burning permits are still required by County Ordinances.

Los Padres National Forest had only twenty fires during the past year on the 2,007,055 acres within its boundaries. These fires burned a total of 55,941 acres. However, one fire, the disastrous Refugio fire of September 6, accounted for 54,510 acres of the total burned. Mr. Jones expressed appreciation for the cooperation of all forest users who helped to hold the number of man-caused fires to a minimum during one of the most critical fire seasons experienced here, as well as throughout California.

WANTED, LOTS OF MEN AND BOYS

Lion President Ken Brown asks all Carmel men and boys to turn out in blue jeans or overalls at the old Murphy Lumber yard next to the Carmel Theater Saturday morning at 9:00 o'clock. Each should bring something, such as a hoe or rake or wheelbarrow or hammer—whatever would be handy to grub out brush and tear down fence. The two Ernies, Bixler and Lunt, professional construction men and earth movers, will be the strawbosses for the day.

As soon as the lot is in shape, the Carmel Lions will invite people to park their cars there. The donation the parkers will be expected to make will go to pay for grading land for a ball park at the high school.

Carmel Boy At Home Among Big Brains At Solar Conference

Herbert, too, was target for Life's photographer, and for the photographers and reporters from the Arizona dailies and the Stanford Research Institute, who posed him with visiting scientists and included him in their interviews with the experts.

The Bells, former residents of Ashland, Oregon, came here to live in August because the Carmel High School science department, under Miss Enid Larson, offers so much opportunity for their scientifically-minded son. Such science departments are seldom found in small town schools and the Bells wish to live in a small town.

Fred Workman Answers Mrs. Grace Howden

(Continued from Page One) bad enough — A sales tax on services is absolutely unsound. We already pay heavy social security, disability, unemployment, liability and workmen's compensation taxes on all labor. Any further tax on services would be regressive and uneconomic.

Public improvements should be the general obligation of the community.

Sincerely,
Fred W. Workman.

of Rome. Several days later Time Magazine came out with a much garbled account of the affair but don't let that confuse you. The account in your Pine Cone was correct.

On the otherhand, the story you saw in the San Francisco papers this week and the report you heard over the radio about Milton Mayer's being in Europe and awaiting a visa to Russia is quite correct as reported about three weeks ago in The Pine Cone.

We are NOT giving ourselves airs. We take no credit for our international news beats. We don't strive for them. They fall in our lap in the course of our routinely keeping track of the Carmelites abroad.

SERRA SCHOOL HAS MANY LOYAL FRIENDS

The faculty of Junipero Serra School of Carmel and officers of the Mothers Club have asked the Pine Cone to express their appreciation to the families and friends who donated time, food, their services, and purchased books for the school library.

In spite of the inclement weather there was a large attendance Sunday at the open house and spaghetti dinner for the benefit of the school library.

MARK RAGGETT RECOVERING
